Observatory Open Evening - Wednesday 10th October 7-9pm

Message body:

Dear Parent/Carer

Our first observatory open evening will be held on Wednesday 10th October from 7-9pm and with the forecast so good we are making an early call to say we'll certainly be open. We hope to observe Mars, a beautiful double star called Albireo and other targets such as Neptune, as well as offering tours around the sky. Star maps will be available on the night and with students studying astronomy this term in science, we hope to see some of our new students there.

Find us next to the athletics track from 7pm (although it won't get properly dark until a little later than that).

Best wishes

Sackville Observatory Team
